MEDAL OF VALOR

The launch of Valor marks a triumphant re-entry for Dutch builder Feadship into the explorer yacht genre, with the 79.5-metre joining the likes of Shinkai and Moonshadow. The steel-hulled superyacht was built for a repeat Feadship client and is equipped with a two-metre ice belt above and below the waterline, "easily fulfilling" the owner's dream of transiting the Northwest Passage. But the real showstopper? Her hybrid-propulsion system. Supported by a solar array, Valor has a zero-carbon footprint for up to two days - and five times the electrical power supply of 83.6-metre Savannah, launched by the yard in 2015 as the world's first hybrid superyacht. ## Benchmark build

US-headquartered Lazzara Yachts has sold its largest yacht project to date with construction scheduled to begin in early 2026. The steel and aluminium 49.5-metre has a sub-500GT layout that accommodates up to 12 guests and 11 crew. More details will be disclosed as the build progresses. HERE COMES
CAMILA

Turkish shipyard Bilgin Yachts has delivered the 49.9-metre Camila. Italian designer Hot Lab is behind her "modern and warm" interiors, achieved with a mix of exposed woods, meshed metal and rich Italian fabrics. A floating staircase, sundeck skylight and decadent foyer chandelier are some custom touches. bilginyacht.com
